Part 1

Aim of the event :

- The main objective behind the induction program is to make the student more comfortable to the new environment and allow them to explore their academic interest and activities, reduce competition and build good relations between teachers and students.

Part 2

Abstract :

Ms. Nihar Sharma, co-founder, opedia.com, delivered a class room lecture on "How to lead your way to Success", on September 6th 2018 for MBA (Sem-1) students. She started the session by describing Clarity in the way to Success. While thinking about success one should be clear with thoughts, purpose, and resource fullness and with values & beliefs that one holds. To get success one has to set an ultimate achievable goal divided into small attainable objectives. She asked the students to think about over some of the simplest questions like what truly made them successful or where they saw themselves in a decade's time and asked students to write something about it. Her motivation here was to lead the students to the path of 'Self -Concept Clarity' which refers to the extent with which self-beliefs are clearly and confidently defined and consistent.

Further, she elaborates that how anyone takes initiative and come out of his/ her comfort zone to overcome all the fears and weaknesses which come in the way of success. After considering the above mentioned aspects one should look forward to the problem that hampers the thought process. In this regards, madam quotes the famous line from Alice in wonderland "If you don't know where you are going any road can take you there".

Ms. Sharma, reminiscing an experience from recent past, told the students about how a highly educated, immensely successful colleague of hers, lost his high paying job as he became oblivious to what motivated him. The world we live in today, sets both professional and personal standards for us to achieve as we grow leaving no space for any errors.

The problem could be related to over thinking which results in the fear of being judged and this can be overcome by reframing all the thoughts and making them powerful. If one is not sure about the ultimate achievable goal one should experiment with different paths in order to identify one's strength and to make the thinking process clear. Self-introspection helps an individual to set his/ her goals and also helps in improving and developing skills in order to attain such goals.

Conclusion

Ms. Sharma held an interactive session within the classroom, to guide students on how they can realize their true potential and subsequently attain it and the students had positive excerpts to take back with them.
