

Title	Guest Lecture on “Career Opportunities for the Prospective Managers in the Present Industrial Scenario” for the students of MBA & BBA.
Resource Person	Dr. Deewakar Goel, HR General Manager, Airport Authority of India
Date	August 19, 2014
Summary	The guest lecture was organized for the students of management to give them an insight into various career opportunities in the current competitive industrial scenario. The aim of this lecture was to aware students about what the industry expects from them starting from entry into corporate in terms of preparation for an interview and then, the working environment where they have to perform. The speaker, with his expertise in the area of Human Resource, shared his experiences of various potholes during his long journey of professional career and how these potholes were eradicated. He explained the importance of mainly two alphabets, P & M. He said that Performance is equal to motivation, where motivation consists of Knowledge and Ability. Sir also stressed upon the attitude and perception of managers by mentioning a statement that, Preferred managers are those who are positive doers and negative doers are always full of excuses and are not liked in industry. Sir also motivated students by saying that further challenge that comes before the young students for better employment cannot be solved by any medicine but, the practice which makes a man perfect and this feeling have to come from within as students whether of RDIAS or IIM must be filled with zeal and enthusiasm. It was indeed a very knowledgeable and interesting session. It was a highly interactive session by an enthusiastic speaker and the audience.