Date	August 8- August 17, 2017
Resource Person/Facilitator	Ms. Sonam Goel, CTP Coordinator
Summary	Good speaking skills are a must have attribute for management students. It is important to inculcate impromptu speaking habits in the students by way of Extempore. This activity was conducted for students’ as part of their managerial skills development curriculum to train them on how to deliver their messages and ideas effectively. Under this activity, students were given one minute to present their views on a given topic. Some of the topics shared for extempore were Indian Consumer power, Energy conservation, Road rage etc. The students’ extempore were judged on the parameters like, introduction, content, presentation, body language and conclusion. They were also given critical feedback to improve their skills for all future activities. The students participated in this activity with full enthusiasm and with a ready-to-learn attitude. Many students had never spoke in front of any kind of an audience before and were glad to be given an opportunity where they could face their fear and speak in front of the entire class. The students were encouraged to speak more and were also given suggestions to become a better speaker.
